Divorced Wife Sues Ex-Hubby; He Won't Wed

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—For the first time in the history of the law, a wife has sued her husband for breach of promise.
Mrs. Lily Hayes is suing William W. Hayes, consulting engineer, for $25,000.
They were married many years ago in Oklahoma. In 1914 she secured a divorce in that state. Later a child was born and this brought them together but did not dissolve the divorce decree.
In her suit Mrs. Hayes says Hayes promised to marry her on July 27, 1922 and four days later repudiated his promise. She says their previous marriage has no bearing on the case.

CENTRAL AVENUE TO BE IMPROVED

Property Owners to Submit Petitions to Council at Next Meeting

Considering the present growth and prosperity and future development of the city of Glendale, Central avenue property owners met last night in the Charles B. Guthrie office at 110 West Broadway and expressed themselves in favor of lighting, paving and street widening projects that will transform Central avenue into a wonderful 100-foot boulevard and one of the city's most important and attractive thoroughfares.

For several days interest of Glendaleans has been directed to the meeting of last night, and this report will be intensified by the report that a large crowd was in attendance and enthusiastically favored the proposed improvements. The initial steps of which are petitions in circulation today.

Another meeting is to be held early next week and the petitions presented by representatives of the Central avenue property owners at the regular meeting of the city council.

Will Require Time
As for the widening project, it is not the intention to tear up the street at once and take land from the property owners. Rather, it is the plan to map the street and have all future building work conform to a building line. This widening process requires time and the property owners are in favor of allowing time for its development.

The lighting plans are for lighting the street the entire length, similar to San Fernando road.

Developing the street itself the plans are for the installation of permanent sewer and water equipment and the paving from Broadway south to San Fernando road with six-inch concrete asphalt.

REAPPORTIONING BILL IS BEATEN

Johnson Measure Defeated In Senate; Voters May Settle Question

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, May 11.—Los Angeles has made its representatives look foolish in the demand for constitutional reapportionment, according to Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena, as his final effort to gain re-districting went down to defeat in the Senate. All efforts have been futile but a good fight has been made.

There is only one course open, it would seem, and that is to initiate two measures at the next general election, one to take constitutional power of reapportionment from the legislature and the other to proceed, forthwith, re-districting on a basis of population, this program having been advocated some time ago.

A wet and dry fight last night, in the Assembly, resulted in a victory for the drys, two measures by San Franciscans going down to defeat.

HONORED FOR 30 YEARS IN U. S. ARMY

Frank J. Lipstreu Receives Official Tribute Upon Faithful Service

Frank J. Lipstreu of 637 North Maryland avenue, municipal license inspector, who has been on army furlough since January, has received his official discharge from the United States army, which was considered such an event that general orders were issued at the Presidio of Monterey commenting upon thirty years of faithful service.

"Master Sergeant Lipstreu has made it clear by his service that as a man and a soldier he stands before his fellows as the best type of non-commissioned officer developed in our army," states the official bulletin. "True to himself and his country, he goes to his well-earned retirement with the respect, admiration and good wishes of his officers and fellow soldiers."

Quartermaster General W. H. Hart says in an official communication regarding Sergeant Lipstreu's retirement: "Great pleasure is taken in expressing an earnest appreciation of his loyal and faithful service. The unselfish devotion and loyalty of the old non-commissioned officers of the quartermaster corps have earned the unqualified recognition of all citizens. Their work during the war was one of inestimable value, contributing in no small measure to the success of the quartermaster's corps during that great emergency."

Well-Merited Reward
"By his retirement the army and the quartermaster's corps loses his presence and experience and ability, but the loss is compensated by the reflection that such retirement is a well-merited reward for a lifetime of worthy service."

In order that he might think of them in his leisure, Sergeant Lipstreu was presented with an easy chair by his comrades at the Presidio.

Sergeant Lipstreu served in Cuba from December 12, 1898, to February 24, 1901; in the Philippines from April 12, 1902, to August 28, 1903, and in Alaska from July 12, 1906, to July 14, 1908. During the World War he served from September 18, 1917, until December 15, 1920, as a captain in the quartermaster's corps.

Railroad Will Spend Millions in Mexico

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—Railroad development on the west coast of Mexico is an absorbing topic in the southern republic. Gen. P. Elias Calles, secretary of the interior, in President Obregon's cabinet, declared here today.

Construction of the 100-mile link between Tepic and Guadalajara at a cost of $14,000,000 by the Southern Pacific company of Mexico, is under way, he said. Its construction, he added, is doubly important to Mexico, because, in addition to permitting development of vast agricultural and mining resources, it will put Mexico in direct rail communication with the Pacific coast states and open up a big reciprocal trade.

FRANK DOTY DEAD

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—F. E. Doty, secretary of the county civil service commission, and generally recognized as the foremost exponent of civil service methods in the United States, died here early today at a local hospital. Death resulted from complications following a minor operation a week ago.

Warns About International Complications

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The death of one of the foreigners held captive by the Suchow bandits may lead to international complications, according to a warning issued by Jacob Gould Schurman, the American minister to China, the state department announced today.

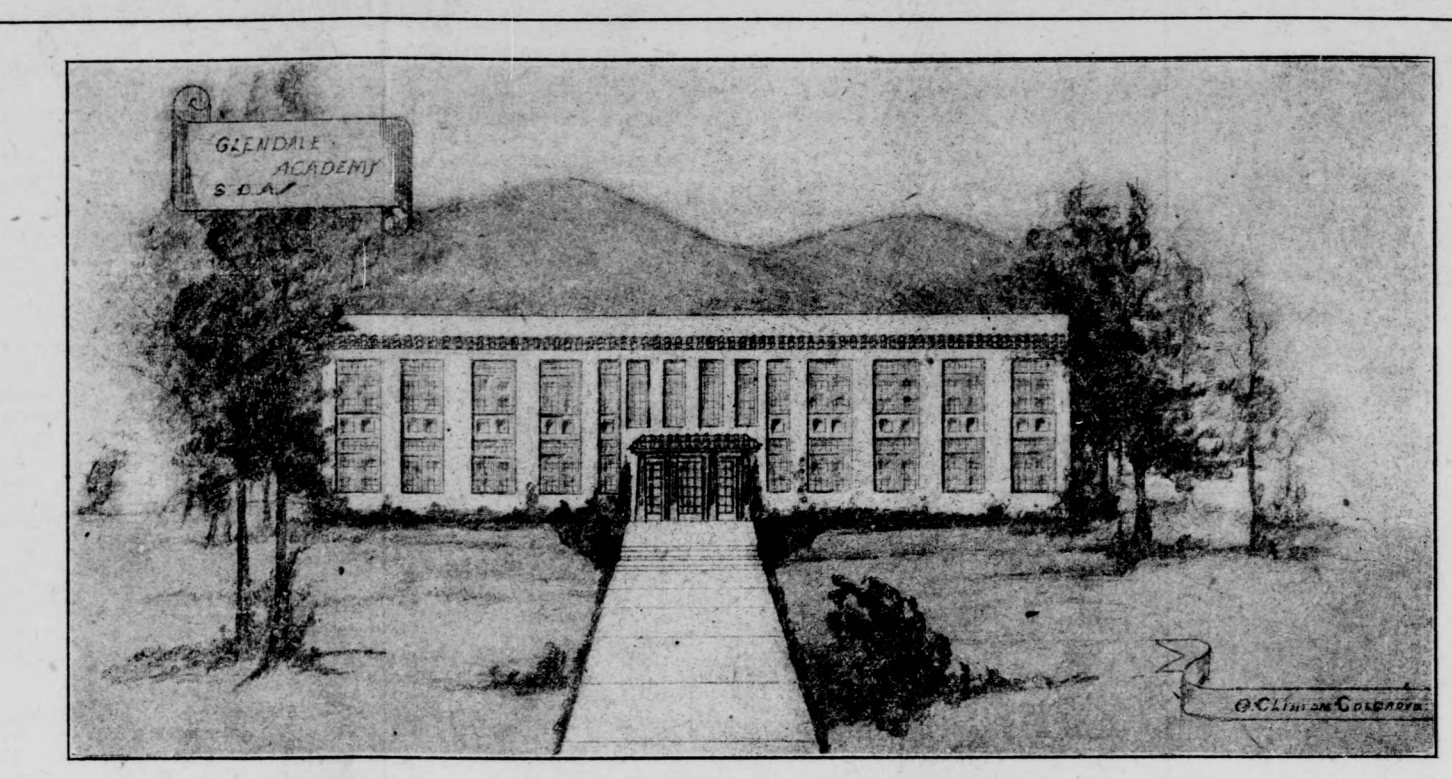

Schurman advised Secretary Hughes that he had told Governor Chi, chief official in Nanking, time was now the most important element in the situation, and that the immediate release of the captives was essential to avoid possible death and resulting trouble between the Peking government and other powers.

Governor Chi informed the American minister that his representatives were now in contact with the bandit leaders in the vicinity of Lincheng, and that the bandits had been assured that Peking was willing to put up the money necessary to ransom the prisoners.

10,000 Rail Workers Get Wage Increases
CHICAGO, May 11.—Chairman Hooper, of the United States railroad labor board, today announced that the Great Northern railroad has granted an increase to its 10,000 maintenance of way employees, ranging from $5.84 to $10 per month. The annual increase to the road's payroll will amount to $750,000.

The raise in no way affects the struggle for seniority rights being waged by shop workers of the road, it was said.

REVENGE IS MOTIVE IN SHOOTING

Russian Peace Meet Envoy Slain in Dining Room Of Swiss Hotel

LAUSANNE, May 11.—"My only hope is that I have an opportunity to get George Tchitcherin also."

This declaration was made here today by Alexander Conradi, a Swiss, who shot and killed M. Vorovsky, Russian observer, at the near east peace conference, in the dining-room of the Hotel Cecil last night.

Conradi paced restlessly up and down his cell, smoking cigarettes as he talked. He had spent a sleepless night, rolling about on his prison cot and frequently rising to walk up and down his cell.

Vengeance Is Motive
"He is really dead, isn't he?" exclaimed the prisoner, referring to Vorovsky. "I was sure he was dead when I saw him fall. How are the others? The Russians tortured my father and my uncle. It was vengeance. They had it coming to them. I want to get Tchitcherin before I die."

Tchitcherin is the commissar for foreign affairs in the Moscow government. Vorovsky was the Russian envoy to Rome. Although Russia was not invited to participate in the near east peace conference Vorovsky came here as an observer.

J. Dibrikovsky, secretary to Vorovsky, is dying from a bullet wound inflicted by Conradi. M. Ahrens, head of the Russian telegraph agency, is wounded, but is expected to recover.

The three Russians were dining together when Conradi entered the room. He took an adjoining table and drank several glasses of brandy, meanwhile watching the Russians.

Interest in Victims
The waiter later told police his attention had been arrested by the keen interest exhibited by Conradi in his companions. Every time the waiter served a glass of brandy Conradi would ask him: "Are you positive those men are Russians here for the peace conference?"

Suddenly the Swiss whipped a pistol from his pocket and opened fire at close range, apparently not aiming at anyone in particular.

After the shooting, he held out his pistol, lighted a cigarette and said he was ready to go to jail.

The minimum temperature at 5 o'clock this morning, was 57 degrees. The warmest locality in the vicinity of Los Angeles yesterday was Pasadena, where a temperature of 98 degrees was recorded.

CHINA SITUATION BEFORE CABINET EQUAL RIGHTS, IS WOMEN'S SLOGAN

Secretary of State Hughes Presents Report; U. S. to Demand 'Showdown'

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11.—The United States is going to have an early showdown with China, as to whether those now in authority in Peking intend to live up to agreements made at the Washington arms conference.

This statement was made in official quarters today while Washington expectantly awaited news of the release of Americans and other foreigners carried off by the Shantung bandits.

China's two plain violations of her treaty agreements, according to officials here, are:

First—Failure to protect persons and properties of foreign residents as shown by the Shantung affair, and

Second—Failure to maintain the "open door" and economic opportunity for all nations as exemplified in Peking's refusal thus far to go through with the Federal Telegraph company's contract for the erection of five wireless stations.

Second Most Serious
Of the two, the American government considers the second violation the most serious.

The Chinese situation was discussed at some length between President Harding and his cabinet today. Secretary of State Hughes presented a full report on the raid developments and on the status of the Federal Telegraph company controversy.

Minister Schurman has informed the Peking government that the United States considers execution of the wireless contract, held by Pacific coast interests, to be the "crucial test" of the open door policy.

Hunt for Patrolman Believed Kidnaped

CLEVELAND, May 11.—A police squad, armed with riot guns, was searching today for Patrolman Dennis Griffin, who was believed by police to have been kidnaped by a prisoner he was taking, to police station earlier in the day.

'Tuffy' Reid Found Guilty; Will Hang

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Clarence "Tuffy" Reid, gangster, was convicted of murder in the first degree today by a jury of six men and six women for the "trunk shot" slaying of Charles Weingarten on January 21. The jury which deliberated seven hours made no recommendation for a life sentence, which means that Reid will be sentenced to hang when he appears before Superior Judge Reeve Monday.

CAPTIVES OF BANDITS TO BE FREED

American Prisoners Will Be Released Shortly, Is Peking Report

By ERIC VON SALZMAN
For International News Service
PEKING, May 11.—Release of the several Americans and other foreigners held by the Shantung train bandits within 24 hours was predicted in advices received here today.

The advices from Lincheng said peaceful negotiations were again proceeding after an apparent deadlock with the two great war lords of China—Tao Kun and Chang Tso-Lin, taking an active part.

This news came as the diplomatic council was scheduled to convene to determine upon lines of joint action in the event that the Chinese commission fails in its efforts to effect release of the prisoners by midnight, May 12, when the ultimatum delivered by the council expires.

Chinese Responsible
The meeting was called following reports from the field that the negotiations in progress between the bandits and representatives of the Peking government were at a standstill.

The political aspect of the kidnappings which has come to the forefront in the recent negotiations has somewhat changed the situation.

All responsibility now rests with the Chinese investigating commission sent to Lincheng at the request of the dean of the diplomatic corps.

The diplomatic body, it was stated today prior to their session, is resolved for the present not to address Marshall Tso-Kun directly. He is the military power in the district affected and some observers have professed to believe his agents responsible for the bandit operations.

The consular body at Lincheng, now including American, French, Italian and British representatives, have received orders not to take up direct relations and negotiations with the brigands. All negotiations are in the hands of the Chinese commission.

Treachery Is Feared
This means a certain deadlock, it is believed, from the field that up until now have refused to negotiate with the Chinese government commission, suspecting the Chinese of treachery.

The bandits want guarantees from the foreigners, especially the consuls and the diplomatic body, which can never be given.

As a result, expiration of the ultimatum delivered the Chinese government by the diplomatic body which called for the release of the prisoners by midnight May 12 is being tensely awaited.

A Catholic missionary at Lincheng, after interviewing the bandit chieftain, reported his attitude to the foreign consuls on the ground. One of the consuls wiring the missionary's report to Peking stated the brigands demanded withdrawal of the troops before opening negotiations for release of the prisoners. He said they were unwilling to mediate through the military authorities, desiring instead direct communication with the American and European consuls regarding terms.

Offers of foodstuffs and clothes for the captives were refused by the brigands, who were said to number 900.

SCHOOL FOR ADVENTISTS WILL COST $27,000

Construction to Start Soon On Building; Plan Big Outing on Site

WORK is to start shortly on the new $27,000 school building to be erected on the north side of Sycamore Canyon road not far from the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital site by the Seventh-day Adventists, according to R. W. Parmelee, pastor of the local Seventh-day Adventist church. The approximate cost of the building will be $27,000 and the cost of equipment $5000.

It is to be used for high school students, while the present grammar school buildings on Isabel street are to be moved near the high school building, to house the grammar school classes. The high school building will accommodate some 150 students.

The lots upon which the grammar school buildings now stand were recently sold by the church.

Included in Plans
Clinton Colgrove is the architect of the new building, which is to be a two-story structure. The first floor plan provides for domestic science room, laboratory, two lavatories, cloak room, students' activity office, small model dining room, and two class rooms, all accessible from a hall of sufficient size to prevent congestion between the class periods.

Included in the second floor plans are library and study, three class rooms, two offices, hall and auditorium. Due to the slope of the ground the auditorium is to be only one story.

The school grounds cover fifteen acres.

Plan Picnic Outing
In celebration of the starting of work on the new school the church people are to meet on the site Sunday for a picnic outing.

Elder Parmelee has made the following announcements of interest to the church people:

"Elder E. W. Farnsworth will occupy the church pulpit Saturday morning at 11 o'clock."

"There will be a special service at the church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock, with Elder Adams, president of the Southern California conference, and R. D. Quinn, one of the secretaries of the general conference, present."

"Pastor Parmelee is to preach Saturday in the Pasadena Seventh Day Adventist church."

VETO ASKED FOR FOUR MEASURES

City Council Disapproves of Bills Inimical to Glendale Sewer

Disapproval of the four bills now before the legislature which take from municipalities and give to county boards of supervisors authority over the installation of street cleaning, sewers, drainage, and garbage collection was officially expressed last night by the City Council.

Councilman Asa Hall introduced a resolution which was adopted without discussion. City Clerk A. J. Van Wie was instructed to dispatch the following telegram: "Resolutions were adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale May 10, 1923, appealing to the governor that he veto Assembly Bill No. 107, Assembly Bill No. 140, Assembly Bill No. 191 and Senate Bill No. 104."

The bills were introduced without notice to officials of cities affected. Enactment would be dangerous to health and prosperity of cities of Los Angeles county and delay and obstruct the building of the outfall sewer."

Tune Up Army Plane For Return Journey

SAN DIEGO, May 11.—The big army monoplane T-2 which last week flew from New York to San Diego without a stop, was being tuned up here today preparatory to flying next week to Washington, D. C., where Lieutenants Macready and Kelly, her pilots, will receive decorations and other honors.

The T-2 came through the 2600 mile non-stop flight in fine shape, showing almost no wear and tear whatsoever when inspected here, it was said. Ordinarily the 400 horse power liberty motors are replaced with a new one after a long distance flight but the one which drove the T-2 across the continent appears to be in such good condition that its replacement has not yet been decided upon.

The flight to the national capital and a subsequent triumphal tour of the east, ordered by the air service, will interfere with the honeymoon of Lieutenant Macready. He was married a few days ago and had asked for a month's leave of absence. His bride is expected to accompany her husband on the eastern trip, traveling by rail.

SCHOOL IS HUMAN MIND WRECKER?

Denver Psychologist Brands Teaching of Today 'Hodge Podge'

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
 For International News Service
 DENVER, May 9.—Condemning methods of teaching used in schools throughout the land today. Dr. Duren J. H. Ward, noted psychologist, has issued a pamphlet here pointing out remedies for what he terms a "hodge podge" educational system.

Despite the fact that education is the "very greatest human undertaking" in the world, the present day school system is denounced by Dr. Ward as a "human mind wrecker."
 "America's school system," Dr. Ward declares, "is ruled by bureaucrats animated with hatred toward talent and genius."
 "There are in the United States today," according to Dr. Ward, "200,000 insane persons and millions of victims of psychopathic maladies. This condition is entirely preventable and is the result of our wretched brain-starring and mind-crippling method of education. The present school system squanders the resources of the country and wastes the energies and lives of the children."

Advocates Big Change
 Dr. Ward advocates an immediate and drastic change in the education of the youth and adult. "In order to even approach the fulfillment of our function in education," he says, "we should as early as possible overhaul and readapt everything pertaining to the education of the young and adult."

And the overhauling, according to Dr. Ward, should begin with the three "R's." He says our "archaic alphabet," containing "wrong letters, silent letters and useless letters," disfigures our written and printed pages and should be abolished.

Dr. Ward continued: "Writing should be based upon the makeup of the child's hand and not, as now, on a system of 'some unknown, half-witted bigot whose notions, in a copy book, are sold through the school board by some exploiting corporation.'"

Grammar Wrongly Taught
 "Grammar, a tool which has been bought and given to children to learn by rote, whether they understand the meaning or not, is a great stumbling block as taught today. We condemn those who cannot learn it as 'defective,' and they must grow up marked as illiterate."

"Except for those who will find use for it in after years, teaching of mathematics on a wholesale basis merely has the effect of atrophying growing minds. An average child in six months to a year could easily learn all the applications of numbers needed in an average life if he had someone with just a little sense to interest him at just the right age. Modern brain study and psychology have exploded the ancient plea that the study of mathematics is a 'valuable universal discipline.' It is discipline for those who are going to use mathematics—for others it is almost wholly a waste of time and good brain cells."

Omit Sex Knowledge
 Dr. Ward declares the schools teach little of economics and less of politics and deplores the fact that, of the most fundamental of all life's problems—sex conditions—the pupil knows nothing.

The remedy for this system, which leaves youth helpless at the threshold of life, according to Dr. Ward, will be found in "placing the facts established by science within the reach and use of every body."

"Modern facts are needed in the schools," he concludes, "taught by modern methods. High school boys who steal automobiles and carry on sexual orgies with half-dressed schoolmates are the natural products of their ignorant parents, their misguided teachers and their ancient-minded pastors."

Trade Offspring of Cats and Foxes

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 10.—Three tiny silver-black foxes opened their eyes at the Great Falls Fox farm on the outskirts of this city recently and found that for nine days they had been receiving nourishment not from their own mothers, but from two cats, both of which had kittens the day the foxes were born. And what's more, George Woolf, superintendent of the fox farm, has fooled the mother cats for nine days, and they are still in the land of the innocent.

At their birth the full litters of kittens were hastily removed and the three fox pups substituted. The cat mothers never noticed the difference and have been tenderly nursing the foxes, licking their glossy black backs, for days.

The two mother cats rest in the warm sunshine in a barrel, with the fox pups, and contentedly meow. To the onlooker there is little difference between the motherless kittens and the pups—a single touch of silver gray on the tails of the baby foxes alone distinguishing them from the kittens.

According to Superintendent Woolf—what's in a name at a fox farm, anyway—cats make good mothers. He said that often when kittens are taken away from cats they run into the open, adopting the offspring of rabbits and gophers to fill the mother instinct.

The Great Falls farm now boasts eleven full-grown and thirty baby foxes, and the stock is on the way with additional offspring. Food of the animals consists of prepared biscuits, eggs, horse and meat and young gophers and rabbits.

As we understand the new book of etiquette, "valet" is now pronounced to rhyme with "et," the past tense of "eat."

Cannot Get Vessel To Return Home

Miss Emily McCoy

Fifteen years ago Miss Emily McCoy came to America to learn trained nursing, so as to care for her native people on Pitcairn Island, a lonely little land in the South Seas, where there is no physician. Her father is chief of the island. She has heard from him once in six years. For the last few years she has been making every endeavor to return home, but vessels touch at the island years apart, and the British government, which sends warships there one a year, will not permit her to go home on board a war vessel.

'Woman Haters' Name Of New College Club

LIMA, Ohio, May 11.—A "Woman-Haters' club" has been organized by two anti-sheiks at Central high school here. The club has two members—youth chaps who, disgusted with girls, brazenly allege they are on the warpath.

Actions of the members are governed by an elaborate constitution. The boys are not permitted to speak to any girl until first addressed. They cannot make a "date" without unanimous consent of the members.

If any insult is directed toward the club or any of its members the club's decree that the offender shall be punished by application of a special paddle, which occupies a conspicuous place in the office of "The Mirror," the school paper issued by the pupils.

"Nix on the Women!" is the club's slogan; also, the members' declaration of independence. Many students can testify to having received the paddle chastisement. It is reported that several girls have been spanked—showing the earnestness of the anti-feminine clique.

The organization has created quite a stir among the students, especially the girls. A number of flappers retaliated by forming a "Man-Haters' Club." The mode of punishment chosen by the feminine club members is that of "idle chatter," or tattling on their victims. This, they claim, is more effective than that used by the boys, though not so violent.

TEACHING HISTORY

In the Miles Standish School in Cleveland history is taught by depicting various historical events on the school stage. When a child actually acts a part in the drama of history, immediately that lesson is firmly fixed in the mind and the student will remember it always, according to the teacher.

Dream Hunch Nets $25,000 for Irishman

BELFAST, May 10.—Dan Fitzpatrick, like all true Irishmen, believes in dreams.

So, when he dreamed that White Bud would win the Lincoln Handicap and Sergeant Murphy would romp in a winner of the Grand National he backed his dream with his coin.

Twenty-five dollars was all the money he could scrape up, but he "shot the works" on White Bud. That charming "blossom" won and her price was 66 to 1. The first half of his dream had netted Fitzpatrick about $1,650.

Still riding his hunch, Fitzpatrick stuck all of his winnings on White Bud on Sergeant Murphy to win the Grand National. The gallant sergeant turned the trick at the good old Bryanite ratio of 16 to 1.

When Fitzpatrick totaled up his winnings he found that he had more than $25,000, and no one in the world can tell him dreams never come true.

Link Mrs. Obenchain With Phillips Probe

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Clipping rumors which have persisted since Clara Phillips, hamper murderer, escaped from the Los Angeles county jail last December, the district attorney's office today was seeking Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain to question her on a circumstance which has come to light in the mysterious case.

The circumstance concerns the turning over to the sheriff's office of a silk night gown and toilet articles which were the property of Mrs. Phillips. Harold L. Carlton, surrendered the articles and told Sheriff Traeger that Mrs. Obenchain gave them to him, shortly after she was released from the county jail December 5, last, and asked him to "keep them until I send for them."

Carlton said Mrs. Obenchain told him she had carried the articles from the jail when she was freed of the charge of having murdered J. Belton Kennedy, a young insurance broker of Los Angeles.

Woman Juror Laments Loss of Jury Fees

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 11.—When the jury which had been selected to hear the case of William C. McConnell, former state prohibition director, charged with being involved in the issuance of fraudulent permits was discharged here because of an alleged attempt to influence jurors, at least one was very much disappointed at the action of the judge.

Mrs. May Mellen said she felt sure the case would last some time and that she had intended to buy a spring dress with the money she would have got in jury fees. "I certainly am sorry we were discharged," she said.

BENNER ATTENDS BOY SCOUT MEET

Executive Conference Meets In Yosemite National Park This Year

Scout Executive Harold Benner left Glendale early this morning for Yosemite National park where he will attend the third biennial conference of Scout Executives of Region Twelve. The executive board of the Council authorized Mr. Benner to attend the conference more than a month ago.

"I'm going to take a big note book with me, together with my Kodak, and I hope between the two of them to bring back to the Verdugo Hills district a gallery of new ideas, pep, and photos of the conference," declared Mr. Benner, just prior to leaving.

According to Mr. Benner, committees have been at work for weeks in preparation for what promises to be the greatest conference in the history of western Scouting. The presence of Lorne W. Barclay, National Director of the Department of Education, and L. L. McDonald, National Camp Director, will give an added significance and strength to the conference which cannot be overestimated. Last minute reports show that Scout Executives from California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada will be in attendance at the conference 100 per cent.

Study Problems
The program has been arranged in a manner calculated to promote an intensive study of administrative problems without waste of time or lack of opportunity for the most general discussion.

The high school principals of the state of California will hold their annual convention at Yosemite during the period of the Scout executives' conference and this will doubtless furnish a splendid opportunity for interchange of ideas on problems affecting the co-operation between the public schools and the Boy Scout movement. Mr. Benner expects to look up George Moyses, principal of the Glendale Union High school, and also F. S. Moore of the Burbank High school.

"I expect to be back in the office by May 20," stated Mr. Benner, "and during my absence Miss Leah Pardon, the office secretary, will take charge."

Rev. Millikan, New Pastor Of Broadway Methodist, Now Resident of Glendale

REV. L. J. MILLIKAN

New pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, South, who arrived in Glendale yesterday and, with Mrs. Millikan, is located at 1017 East Lexington Drive. He has been active in ministry for about twenty-nine years.

Rev. L. J. Millikan, accompanied by Mrs. Millikan, arrived in Glendale on Thursday, and has located at 1017 East Lexington Drive. Rev. Millikan has been assigned to the pastorate of the Broadway Methodist church, South, which duties he will assume on next Sunday.

Rev. Millikan has been in the active work of the ministry for the past twenty-nine years, and is considered one of the able ministers of his conference. He was born near Marion, Ky., and when but a young man was licensed to preach the following churches: Sherman, Ill.; Nashville, Ill.; Marion, Ill., and was made presiding elder of the Murphysboro and Waverly districts in that state. Coming to California in 1908, he has served the following churches: Pomona; St. Paul's, Los Angeles; Duarte; Carpinteria; San Bernardino, and assistant pastor and director of religious education of Trinity church, Los Angeles.

At Duarte and San Bernardino charges he served four years each. Rev. Millikan enjoys the distinction of having been requested to be returned to every church he has ever served as pastor, and the members of the local congregation consider themselves fortunate in securing him as their leader.

Rev. Millikan has a son in business in Illinois and another, Charles E. Millikan, who is assistant dean of the college of law of the University of Southern California. The new minister will be given a hearty welcome, not only by his own members, but by all of Glendale's church people.

Ton-Litter Plan Is Helping Pig Raisers

CHICAGO, May 11.—More pigs will wiggle their chops to the American table this year as the result of the Ton-Litter plan devised by Professor James R. Wiley, of Purdue University.

In order to encourage an increase in the marketing of hogs, and to block the leak in pig crop between farrowing time and marketing, Professor Wiley, in 1922, inaugurated a Ton-Litter contest in Indiana. In this contest the farmer or boy who produced a ton or more of pork from a single litter of pigs, within six months of their birth, was awarded a gold medal.

Thirty-two of an entry list of 555 in the contest won these medals, Professor Wiley said.

According to Professor Wiley, ordinarily only four to five pigs of a litter are marketed, but under the Ton-Litter system practically the whole litter of ten or fifteen pigs may be saved through skilful breeding, feeding, management and early maturity.

In Indiana thousands of farmers have entered the Ton-Litter contest this year, Professor Wiley declared, and other states in the corn belt have now started similar contests, notably Texas, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio.

Warns Jeweled Woman To Beware Assessor

LIMA, Ohio, May 11.—Women who own diamond rings and who do not make out personal tax returns had better not wear the jewels in public or any place where they may be seen by assessors or county officials, or the assessors will get them if they don't watch out. This warning has been issued by County Auditor C. R. Phillips: "It is well that all the diamonds get on the personal tax blanks this year by consent of the owners. Otherwise they are likely to get there, anyhow, if they are displayed," Auditor Phillips said. He has ordered all assessors to keep a "watchful eye" for diamonds and jewels worn by women in their taxing district and to see that all are on the tax duplicate.

British Fighting U. S. China Cotton Trade

LONDON, May 10.—British cotton manufacturers are taking steps to check the American invasion of the Chinese cotton industry. The Textile Machinery Makers' association of Lancashire is establishing a textile technical school at Shanghai, where it is hoped that British methods will be instilled in the Chinese in order that the British cotton manufacturers may work in close co-operation with the Chinese. At the present time there are heavy American interests in the Chinese cotton industry.

Sentinel Gander Puts Officer to Flight

AKRON, Ohio, May 11.—Rather a roughneck bootlegger any time than a gander, sights Norman Gilbert, Summit county deputy sheriff, as he recounted a recent experience. The sheriff sent Gilbert to an isolated section of the county to serve some papers.

While knocking at the kitchen door he heard a voice inside say, "Get him!"

Then he felt a buzz in the back. Turning he saw a huge gander—"the biggest goose in the world," he asserts. The bird chased the officer back to where his car was parked, a half mile from the house, and on the way snatched a large piece of cloth from the seat of Gilbert's trousers. He clung to him until the officer climbed over the running board and then hissed a scornful farewell, as Gilbert drove away with the muffer open. The papers were not served.

Motherhood, Luxury, Declares Britisher

LONDON, May 11.—"Motherhood is, after all, a luxury," was the statement made by Councillor E. H. Pritchard at a recent meeting of the Fulham Borough Council, where a proposal to increase the fees in the local maternity hospital was being discussed. "If people are so poor that they cannot afford the fees," Pritchard went on, "they can go to the infirmary free of cost."

The statement made by Pritchard drew a retort from Alderman J. Palmer:

"I have no doubt that Councillor Pritchard has gone in for the luxury at one time," Palmer, who is a member of the Labor party, declared.

"Yes," Pritchard retorted, "and paid for it."

The council apparently approved of Pritchard's views, for it passed the resolution increasing the hospital fees.

Kneeling in Prayer, Tries to Rob Church

CHICAGO, May 11.—Kneeling at the altar and pretending to be praying, Louis Abrahams, fifty-three, tried to rob the candle fund box of $12 in St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church here, police claim.

Mrs. Catherine Schouta, kneeling beside him, screamed when she saw him slide a knife blade under the box lid in an attempt to open it. Rev. Father Lee, the priest, seized Abrahams and held him until the officers arrived.

When arraigned later Abrahams was ordered committed to the psychopathic hospital for observation.

The world probably isn't getting wiser. It just seems that way because there is less reverence for oratory.

MIDDLE-AGED IS BEST AS HUBBY?

English Authoress Declares Comfort Compensates for Forfeited Romance

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
LONDON, May 11.—Middle-aged husbands, according to Miss Edna Fortescue, noted English writer, are more interesting than the youthful ones. They offer the modern girl greater security and, generally, greater wealth and added luxury.

But the girl who marries a middle-aged man, Miss Fortescue believes, sacrifices one big thing—romance.

The problem is for the girl herself to decide—whether she prefers solid and sedate middle-age to eager and passionate youth.

"It is chiefly the man of the more interesting type," said Miss Fortescue, "who acquires a bride when he is past his first youth. Middle-aged women may like the effrontery and clumsiness of the stripling, but more and more is the modern girl tending to look favorably upon the advances of the man who can offer security and repose rather than passion and poverty."

Forced to Wed Late
"The professional man—the doctor, the architect, the lawyer—is not infrequently compelled to marry late in life. Unless he choose a woman of means it is often impossible for him to consider matrimony until he has established himself firmly. Many successful business men postpone finding a mate for a similar cause. The ambitious man who by sheer ability is forcing himself to the top often delays marriage for the sound reason that he wants a wife fitted to the position he will one day have to offer."

"And it is the man who has done something in life that the young woman of character seeks for a husband. She sets against his lost youth what are to her greater advantages—the position he can confer, the practical wisdom he can distill, the fact that he is, all things considered, more companionable than the callow youths of her own age."

Older Men "Helpful"
"He may not dance so untrillingly as the stripling, but when she is puzzled, confused or pained with life he will be of more help to her. The middle-aged husband is steady. He has no intense, pressing claims of his own to urge. He is so delighted to find a young, pretty, vivacious creature, full of vim and brightness and amusement in his home that he asks no more than that she shall continue to be at her best."

"So it is the wife's problem entirely. An elderly husband cannot combine the attractions of the boy with the advantages of maturity."

"In affairs of this kind it must always be remembered that women are both romanticists and realists. If they romance about love they face facts in marriage. Many a woman seeks or pines when she has despaired of love coming to her. She seeks security, kind treatment, freedom, position; in short, she seeks the comfort of conjugal life rather than the fire of passion."

"Altogether, if she choose wisely, the girl who marries a middle-aged husband sacrifices but one big thing—romance."

Do You Know Anyone Here Age 85 Years or More? Names Wanted

THE GLENDALE EVENING NEWS' gathering of Glendale's "past ninety year olds" into the informal organization of the "Sunset Club" has been of wide interest to News readers and has brought much pleasure and happiness to the old people themselves, to their relatives and their friends.

When the Sunset Club was informally organized last summer its membership was confined to men and women past ninety years of age. After a most careful inquiry the News was able to enroll only eleven members. Since January 1, 1923 the club membership has been reduced by death to six.

Upon the suggestion of several readers and friends The Evening News has decided to make these six "past ninety year olds" honorary members, and open the club membership to anyone past 85 years of age.

There are many interesting old people in Glendale who were born over eighty five years ago, and The Evening News is anxious to record their names, birthdays and interesting experiences of their lives in its columns.

A plea is made to Evening News readers to keep these old people in mind and either send in a biographical sketch to the News office or telephone in the name of the club.

TELLS WOMEN TO MIX IN POLITICS PARISIAN ANKLES NO LONGER TRIM

Democratic Leader in Plea For Activity; Chance to Get Voices Heard

By DOUGLAS G. TINSLEY
For International News Service
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 11.—
Democratic woman, who want a
"say-so" about the next president, should get busy now, advises Mrs.
Emily Newell Blair, resident national committeewoman of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Blair recently addressed the Woman's Club here.

"The Democratic women have an opportunity in the coming presidential conventions bigger than the Republican women," said Mrs.
Blair.

"With the Democrats it's an open field. It will be the women's own fault if, after the nominations are over, they sit back and say: 'Oh, well, we have to vote for Tweedle-Dee.' They will be given their chance to nominate Tweedle-Dee if they want to do it.

"On the other hand, the Republican women don't have any chance to help pick a candidate.
Mr. Harding already has been chosen for them, and the issue will be his administration. The Republicans can't get out of nominating him without repudiating the administration."

Mrs. Blair scoffs at the idea of the women electing any certain candidate.

Women Can't Dominate
"The women's vote can't be delivered," she said. "I should feel very badly if I thought the women of the country were going to elect a president. I hope the American citizens will elect him."

Mrs. Blair said the Democratic women have the opportunity to make their voices heard in the national convention, but they should get active in politics now and prepare to see that women delegates were elected.

She said the "fifty-fifty" representation bill recently passed by the legislature gives the women of Missouri a big opportunity if they take advantage of it. Mrs.
Blair advises women who go into politics to begin at the bottom.

"The reason we are without women political leaders in this country today," she said, "is that women have been pitchedforked into party positions and have not had to work through the ranks as have the men. We had leaders in the suffrage movement such as Mrs. Catt, Dr. Shaw and Alice Paul, because they had worked in it a long time and had come up from the bottom. Women have had the vote, however, too short a time for any really big women leaders yet to be developed."

Mrs. Blair advocates women running for office, but thinks they should begin in the city councils, state legislatures and in other bodies close at hand.

"They will have to fight their way along the road just as the men have, and that will develop leadership in them, she said.

"There will always be too many women with time and leisure who are not seeking political spoils," she said, "and the paid labor of the political machines will never compete with the free labor of persons who are not after pie."

"The only thing that can jam the machine is a person willing to work and who doesn't want anything."

Mrs. Blair doesn't think women will get very far in politics by vamping or "gold digging" the men for favors.

"That method sometimes brings results on the surface, I understand," she said. "But it is just as unsatisfactory as storming around in a militant fashion would be. The women in politics frankly are up against a proposition that many wives are facing.

It is that of winning the confidence of the men. We appreciate their respect and their kindness and their justness toward us, but we want to be taken into their confidence and given an opportunity to help share their burdens and fight shoulder to shoulder.
That is something which we will win in time."

French Paper Laments on Passing of Dainty Nether Limbs; Blame Slippers

By ALICE LANGELEIR
For International News Service
PARIS, May 11.—"Where, oh, where, are the trim little ankles of long ago?" asks Andre Laphin in L'Intransigeant. The pride of the French nation—a woman's ankle, neat and svelte and supple, springing from her dainty shoe—a chef d'oeuvre of the French nature, seems to be disappearing from sight.

The vogue of the low shoe is principally to blame, thinks Monsieur Laphin. Before the war the Parisienne wore her light low shoes and slippers only about the house, to the theatre or to the ball. For walking and work she donned high boots that kept her ankles trim and prevented them from spreading out to an ugly size.

Today it is the low shoe and pump for every occasion, town wear and country wear alike.
As well as play. Rarely does one see a high boot. Result: The ankles, never being encased, are attaining an alarming size.

May Cover Up
What is to be done? The fashionable designers along the Rue de la Paix say that they will make the gowns longer, but Monsieur Laphin says that is covering up the trouble and not remedying it.

Besides, what man wants a woman's ankles covered up?
Shoemakers say that a little body could be added that would help some, but at the same time prices of shoes would rise, and goodness knows they are high enough now.

"Une blague, bosh," says Mis-tinguett, who claims the most beautiful legs in all of France.
"A woman is born with large or small ankles, just as a man is born handsome or ugly. How does it all come about? No one knows, only the Creator himself, but certainly the shoes have nothing to do with the matter."

The Academy of Medicine and perhaps the Academy of Sciences are soon to take up the matter, and it is to be hoped that Mademoiselle Mistinguett will be present at the discussion.

Urges Beet Sugar to Cut Advanced Price

DEFIANCE, Ohio, May 10.—
"Because domestic sugar is in no way involved in the present government suit to end gambling in prices we have another convincing argument that the best way to lower the price is to raise more beets in this country," said Charles H. Allen, president of the Farmers' Sugar Company.

"Every pound of American sugar goes immediately into the hands of distributors," said President Allen.
"Not a pound of this sugar is bought or sold on any stock exchange. The beet sugar interests consequently, are not interested in this (federal) government's prosecution, except as it helps to focus attention of the government and the people at large on the necessity for increasing our American production."

"Dealing in sugar futures in New York is all concerned with raw sugar, even before the refineries have been given a chance at it.
This means only the Cuban product, for all American beet sugar is sold in granulated form, ready for use," President Allen pointed out.

"It looks as though the Cuban interests thought sugar would still go higher. If there were now a large supply of domestic sugar to compete with the Cuban product for the American market it would be impossible for the great trust which controls the imported sugar to run the price up to any figure it desires," said President Allen.

PUT SOCIETY IN CLASSES, PLEA

Chicagoan Would Set Aside
Criminals, Illiterates,
Mentally Deficient

By JACK CEJNAR
For International News Service
CHICAGO, May 11.—In a speech before students at Northwestern University, Professor William Mc-Dougall, of Harvard University, advocated startling proposals in the way of birth control, eugenics and suffrage, which would mean a sweeping reorganization of the present foundations of society.

Professor McDougall would discard the mentally deficient, the convicted criminals and the illiterate. Having thus divided society into two great classes he would prohibit intermarriage between the "full citizens" and the disfranchised. Ostracism would be the penalty for disobedience.

The "full citizens" would be divided into two classes—A and B.
The A class containing the highest class of people, physically, mentally and morally. But this class would be attained only after prolonged "children of A" in order for instance, would have the status of the "B" class as their birthright, with promotion or de-motion as the ultimate result depending on their conduct.

Would Restrict
The professor would restrict the number of offspring in the lowest strata in his social scale by a "deliberate social control dictated by the principles of national ethics."

Professor McDougall foresaw three great advantages of such an organization of society. It would place political power in each nation in the hands of "a reasonably select body of citizens, men and women." Each nation would be fortified against the tendency to die away at the top. The class of "full citizens" would be protected against the lowering of its quality by the "influx of blood of inferior quality," and so "preserve itself" from deterioration and even slowly improve its quality from century to century.

BEATING BEST, SO PEERESS ASSERTS

Effective Way to Get Work
Out of Natives, Says
This Englishwoman

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
LONDON, May 9.—If you ever go to Timbuctoo and find that the natives are shirking on the job, just grab the first hairbrush you can get hold of and beat them.

This is the recipe for getting work out of the Timbuctoos brought to London by Lady Dorothy Mills, who has just returned from that country. Lady Dorothy declares she was told that she was the first Englishwoman to journey there.

"The natives," said Lady Dorothy, "are inclined to be very lazy, particularly when employed by a woman. So I used to beat them every day, sometimes with my hairbrush, in order to keep them working. But even that would not always suffice, so I used to bribe them by promising them a sheep or a kola nut in order to induce them to work. When they had a sheep they gorged and gorged and then worked willingly."

Point Teeth: Eat Chiefs
Among the queer customs of the natives observed by Lady Dorothy is that of "pointing" their teeth so that they can eat their chiefs when they die. Once when the French authorities protested over a prospective feast the natives said that they hadn't eaten a man for six months and that it was essential they should eat the man in question as he "wasn't a great chief, anyway."

Women of Timbuctoo. Lady Dorothy said, regard work as a reproach to their honor, and the side of the head in order to bribe the natives women wear heavy veils and cannot be induced to remove them.

Had Perilous Trip
"I arrived in Timbuctoo about the middle of February," Lady Dorothy said, "and was there about a fortnight. It was intensely hot, the temperature being about 130 degrees in the shade, and I had to place wet cloths at the side of my bed in order to save myself from fainting during the night."

"I traveled from Bamako to Timbuctoo. At times we ran short of food as it was dangerous to go into the villages owing to the prevalence of yellow fever."

"On arriving at Timbuctoo I saw a motor car—modernism in the midst of complete barbarism."

"Going into Timbuctoo I traveled on a small tug, which was conveying soldiers. Coming back
I used a chalande, a sort of punt, which is used on the river when the water is low. This was manned by ten natives, who propelled the boat by means of poles, and when the wind was good we put up a sail. Two and a half miles an hour was the maximum speed of this craft."

Warship Cuts Record For Hawaii-U. S. Run

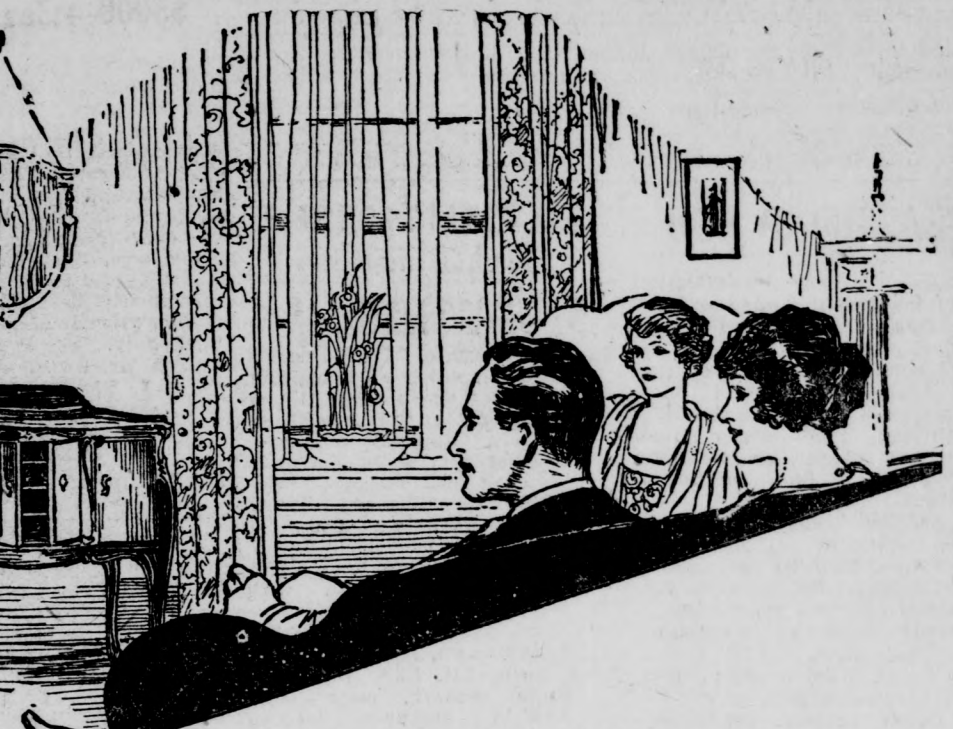

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—
Rear Admiral R. P. Longshore exchange stated the U. S. S. Omaha would arrive here this evening from Pearl Harbor, having a new record for the 2,691 miles between here and Hawaii.

She expects to make the Golden Gate by 8 p. m. and will then have made the passage in three days and twelve hours. The old record of four days, four hours and thirty-one minutes is held by the H. P. Alexander, formerly the Great Northern, cutting the time down by sixteen hours and thirty-one minutes.

ENGINES NEED REPAIR

Pulling trains day after day is very hard on locomotives. More than a fourth of the locomotives in the freight service are either in the "engine hospital" or awaiting their turn to go there.

FERBER'S OPENING IS BIG SUCCESS

Big Crowd Attends Store's
First Day; Customers
Well Satisfied

If the success of their opening day can be taken as a criterion, Ferber's Merchandise store, at 108 South Brand boulevard, is destined to enjoy business success.

Glendaleans visited the store during the day, and not alone from curiosity to see the new shopping place, for the store employs report splendid sales throughout the day.

The store is one of a chain of stores planned for establishment in Glendale, Fullerton, Pasadena, Long Beach, Anaheim and Santa Ana.

Sewers Are Swamped By Home Brew Mash

LEWISTOWN, Mont., May 11.—
City Engineer R. P. Longshore is having trouble with the home-brewers and moonshiners, and, although he has not joined the federal or state prohibition forces, his wrath is great.

The sewers in Lewistown, Longshore explains, are adequate, under ordinary circumstances, to serve the purpose for which they were constructed, but recently there has been enough homebrew mash dumped into the pipes, he declares, to dam up the Missouri river.

Last week the city engineer's force had a real job in cleaning out accumulated mash in one of the main lines. The effort was finally successful, but Longshore believes the trouble will recur, for he has not been able to locate the offenders.
He begs people who make home-brew to put their mash down the pipes in small lots instead of a barrel at a time.

Longshore says if this appeal is disregarded the only solution left is the laying of storm sewers in all sections of the town, or perhaps an even larger type, which he designates as a "homebrew system."

THE RULING PASSION

A Marion, Ohio, man, returning from a visit to the president, states that the president doesn't have time to read the newspapers, he is so busy. The president confessed to the caller, according to his report, that he takes the Marion Star to his room at night and looks it all over from top to bottom and from the first page to the last.
Then he takes a rule and measures up the advertising.

Whereas, the enactment into law of said bills would be dangerous to the health and prosperity of the cities in Los Angeles county and would delay and seriously obstruct the building of the new outfall sewer, which the citizens of the city of Los Angeles demand be completed as soon as possible, and

Whereas, the passage of said bills would transfer the control of the proceeds of the $12,000,000 sewer bond issue voted by the people of Los Angeles on August 29, 1922, from the city officials of the city of Los Angeles to the county officials of the county of Los Angeles, which is in violation of the rights vested in the municipal corporation of Los Angeles by the constitution of the state of California, and

Whereas, the passage of said bills would greatly delay the construction of a new outfall sewer and involve the city in expensive and prolonged litigation,

Therefore, be it resolved, that the mayor and council of the city of Glendale hereby approve the action of the City of Los Angeles in its efforts to bring about the veto of said bills, and joins with it in an appeal to the governor of the state of California, requesting that he veto said bills, and that the city clerk be, and is hereby authorized and directed to transmit by telegraph this resolution to the governor of the state of California.

STORY IS DENIED
CHICAGO, May 11.—While the grand jury investigating the death of Leighston Mount visited the lake pier today, the freshman's skeleton was found eleven days ago, Walter Dill Scott, Northwestern president, issued a statement denying a story from the boy's mother, that sixteen students were expelled after the class fight preceding Mount's disappearance in 1921.

Well, a good rain when the team is at home saves many an office boy's grandmother.

MANY HOMELESS

No fewer than 46,000 families are in Vienna, without a place to live. They cannot rent even one room, because since 1913 not one house has been built in Vienna, which is now the poorest city in the world. In some cases four or five families live in one small room.

WHAT DO YOU THINK

A Washington, D. C., man took exception to the din and excessive horn blowing at a wedding party and escorted the bride and groom to the police. The police commissioner, after their release saying it was foolishness to arrest them, people only get married, or they ought to be free to do it. They can blow 40 horns if they want to," he said.

TUJUNGA

PLANS TO WIDEN
HIGHWAY SOUGHTTransportation Problem Will Be Subject at Meeting
Of Valley C. of C.

The regular meeting of the Tujuanga Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday night at Bolton hall and little besides routine business was conducted.

Discussion was carried on as to the best way to proceed with plans for the widening of the state highway from the present narrow width of sixteen feet to one hundred feet. As this is one of the most important questions facing not only Tujuanga, but the entire valley, this move must be thoroughly worked out before any definite steps can be taken.

The letter from the Glendale-Montrose Railway company in regard to extending their road to Tujuanga and Sunland was read and accepted as final and closing the matter entirely, at least for the present. Some other means of solving the transportation problem here will have to be sought. Important developments are expected in a day or two in connection with the reported deal whereby the Pacific Electric is to purchase the Verdugo Hills Transportation company and improve the service.

Re-routing of Mail

Another important question discussed was the re-routing of mail. The present system is anything but satisfactory and some solution of this question is also sought. As it is now, mail is routed from Los Angeles for the local post office and mail for valley points sent from this office must first go to Los Angeles and then back again to be delivered the next day, whereas it should not take but a few hours to make this delivery. Nothing definite was done on this as yet. A lack of cooperation on the part of other valley towns is hampering any move that could be made. This question has been up before and through some misunderstanding or unwillingness on the part of other nearby towns to cooperate nothing has come of it. A pull-together effort on the part of all concerned in this matter would very likely get the desired results from the postal authorities, but nothing can be accomplished by the tactics displayed in the past.

A report was made on the progress of street improvement that showed favorable results being gained without any delay. The Associated Chambers of Commerce will meet at Tujuanga next Tuesday evening at the Community church at 6:30. A dinner will be served the members and a short program of entertainment will follow, after which the above questions will again be aired and others disposed of. The most important is the one concerning the widening of the highway and the one concerning the routing of mail so that neighbors two miles away won't have to wait three days for a letter to go to Los Angeles to be delivered.

Radio Profiteers

Tujuanga has many radio receiving sets and many of these are the sole means of entertainment to sick people who make their home here. Thus, it will be plainly seen that the radio is an important factor in their every day life, as they cannot get about to enjoy the shows and entertainments. Not only that but a great many people who are not sick have come to depend on the radio for their entertainment, and anything concerning the development of this wonderful new science concerns a great many.

A situation has arisen at Portland, Oregon, that may or may not spread to the rest of the broadcasting stations, depending entirely on how it is handled there. A set of music publishers has developed a large bump of greed and has demanded that the radio broadcasting stations pay them for the use of their music at these concerts. Not merely that they buy the sheet music, but that they pay a royalty on top of this, which is little short of extortion. There have been and still are many different species of the profiteer, but this is the latest and perhaps the most conscienceless of the entire lot.

The radio phone operators have refused to use their music at this place and until such a time as the case is decided they will broadcast only classical music, upon which no one has as yet demanded a royalty. This stand on the part of the operators is commendable. KHJ of Los Angeles has announced via the air that they have not as yet been approached on the subject, but should they be they will positively refuse to use music published by this group, as they consider the demand unreasonable in the highest degree. Hospitals, sanitariums, private homes and mountain cabins are now equipped with these instruments and soldiers, disabled by the ravages of a war in which they fought that these unscrupulous commercialists might live and enjoy the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness, are now in danger of losing what in many cases, is their only source of amusement as they lie on their couches in pain, all through the greed of the very ones who promised so much and forgot so soon. It would seem that there is no limit to the greed that certain of the human species can develop.

Asks Crossing Over
P. E. Right of Way

A request that a crossing be opened across the Pacific Electric right of way at Palmer avenue was received last night by the City Council.

H. A. Miner of 119 East Palmer avenue brought the subject up for consideration. He stated that the lack of a suitable crossing at this point made it necessary for him to drive around the block to reach his home. He called attention also to the fact that Palmer avenue is a through street.

Councilman Sam Davis suggested that the matter should be taken up by City Manager W. H. Reeves and City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy with the proper Pacific Electric officials and then with the state railroad commission.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 11.—A statement that the drive to sell 50,000 shares of Piggly-Wiggly stock had resulted in failure was ready for release late yesterday.

Clarence Saunders, Piggly-Wiggly president, was expected to announce his plans to remove headquarters of the company from Memphis.

The drive was conducted with the aid of hundreds of citizens to "beat Wall Street," save Saunders from bankruptcy and hold headquarters of the chain store project here.

Fate supersedes man's will power.

Miss Daniels will leave Glendale next Tuesday, and it will be her first trip east since she came to California eleven years ago.

She will go directly to Boston, and from there will accompany one of her brothers to Lake Sunapee, a summer resort, eighty miles distant, where they will spend the month of July.

The remainder of the time Miss Daniels will spend in Boston and at another brother's summer home at Kenderma, a resort just outside of Boston.

COUNCIL ISSUES PERMIT FOR TENT

Chautauqua License Fees Fixed; Bond Required For Cleaning Lot

The Ellison-White Chautauqua was given permission to erect its tent on the southwest corner of Harvard and Orange streets last night by the City Council.

The question as to whether or not a license fee should be required was brought up for discussion. Councilman W. A. Horn called attention to the fact that it was a non-profit-making organization only so far as its guarantors are concerned.

"There ought to be a provision to make them clean up the lot afterwards," remarked Councilman Sam Davis. "Ought to make them put up a cash bond of $25."

"I am in favor of making them do that within a reasonable length of time, too," added Councilman Horn.

"Something ought to be done about the condition of Broadway and Cedar," asserted Councilman C. E. Kimlin, speaking about the recent site of the tabernacle of the Broadway Methodist church.

Mr. Davis suggested that City Manager W. H. Reeves should take this matter up with members of this church.

Must Clean Up Lot

Mayor Spencer Robinson suggested that the owner of the property should be made responsible for the care of the lot after the removal of the tent.

Referring to the Chautauqua license fee, Mr. Kimlin moved that the permit be granted in the regular way—with a fee of $10 for the first day and $5 for every day thereafter. Mr. Davis amended this to include the fact that a cash bond of $25 should be put up to insure the clearing of the rubbish off the lot afterwards.

"We furnish them a pretty good city to come to," exclaimed Mayor Spencer Robinson.

Masons Honor Founder Of First California Lodge

REDDING, Cal., May 11.—

Seventy-five years ago, Peter Lassen instituted the first Masonic lodge in the state at Benton City. He brought the charter with him from Missouri. That lodge, the Western Star, is still functioning in the old town of Shasta. Only a month ago the site of Benton City, a city of the past, was located positively on Deer Creek, five miles south of Los Molinos, nineteen miles north of Chico, on the state highway. At that historic spot the Western Star members yesterday dedicated a monument commemorative of the event and of Peter Lassen.

Painter Mangled When P. E. Train Hits Auto

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—

Dragged 3000 yards beneath the trucks of a Pacific Electric train, horribly mangled his body, James Hudson, a painter, was instantly killed late yesterday at Wilshire boulevard and Sherman Crossing when a train struck the automobile in which he was driving.

Hudson apparently became excited when he saw the train bearing upon him, according to witnesses, and stalled his machine on the tracks. Hudson's machine was reduced to a mass of splintered wood and twisted steel by the impact of the crash and it was more than an hour before the victim's body could be extricated from beneath the train.

FERRY'S CAMP IS TOPIC OF COUNCIL

Contractor Is Given Year to Move Mule Teams to New Location

Peter L. Ferry, contractor, of 614 East Acacia avenue and his neighbors made a solemn compact to be friendly last night in the presence of the City Council.

The subject of the grading camp was brought up by the presence of three ordinances, each aimed to regulate from a different standpoint the keeping of mules within the city limits and Mr. Ferry's mules in particular.

"I am interested in those ordinances," remarked Mr. Ferry. "I don't think it would be wise to legislate me out of business. I might say that I have been looking about for another location for my camp and I think you might give me a reasonable length of time."

A suggestion that it might be necessary to take the case into court was made by Mr. Ferry. Councilman W. A. Horn expressed his objection to such a threat. William E. Howell of 624 East Acacia avenue, spokesman for the protesters, inquired if it would not be possible to make violation of the ordinances a separate offense for each day continued so that litigation might be quite expensive.

Gets Year's Delay

The question as to what is a reasonable length of time for him to move his camp was inquired of Contractor Ferry. He stated that he would have it moved by the time Park avenue is cut through. An opinion was expressed by Mr. Howell that this might take a year and a half or two years. This was denied by Mr. Ferry, who asserted that the work could be done in a year provided none of the interested property owners obstructed its progress.

After some discussion, Mr. Ferry agreed to move his camp within a year and Mr. Howell agreed that protesters against the camp not only would not make any further trouble during that time, but would do everything to hasten the opening of Park avenue. This solution of the problem was received with immense satisfaction by the City Council.

EAGLE ROCK

MUSICAL CONCERT WILL BE FEATURE

Apollo Quartet and Choir of Congregational Church
To Offer Program

What is believed will prove the finest musical concert ever heard in Eagle Rock is scheduled for May 18 at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, when the Apollo Quartet, of Los Angeles, together with the First Congregational church choir of that city, will give a joint program.

The quartet comes fresh from a very successful engagement at a popular new Hollywood motion picture theatre, and comprises: Lewis Yockel, first tenor; George Gramlich, second tenor; John Smallman, baritone, and Clifford Bates, bass.

John Smallman will direct the concert. He has the reputation of being a musician with an intelligent insight into ensemble work, possesses a fine voice, ability and the necessary artistic feeling to get the most out of a group of singers, whether the number be classical or modern.

Comes from Boston

Mr. Smallman has for the past four years conducted the Los Angeles Oratorio society, gaining for himself a decided reputation in local and coast musical circles. He comes from Boston, where he has established himself as a baritone of unusual ability, a reputation he has enhanced since his arrival in Los Angeles.

Tickets for this concert may be procured through the Congregational church, the Women's club, the Music shop and places of business in Eagle Rock, where announcements are displayed.

Among the numbers to be given are "By Babylon's Wave," "Gounod," "Savior, Thy Children Keep," Sullivan.

The Apollo quartet will render "Magnolia of Old Tennessee," Bray.

John Smallman will give "Eternity." His accompanist will be Lorna Gregg.

Among the patronesses are Mrs. Alice Winters, Mrs. A. C. Fisk, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. A. J. Braasch, Mrs. E. Thompson, Mrs. C. W. Young, Mrs. H. I. Cruzan and Miss Condin.

Other Music Notes

The Junior Music club will give its second annual luncheon Saturday, May 19, at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, it is announced by Mrs. Fred Caldwell.

Luncheon will be served promptly at 12:30 o'clock, and will be followed by a program given by the Junior club.

All reservations must be in by May 17, and may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Caldwell, Garvanza 1512, or by phoning Mrs. Harsh or Mrs. Stephens, Garvanza 2787 or 774, respectively.

Coincident with the opening of Music Week, on Saturday night, May 19, the children who took part in the recent pageant at Elysian park have been requested to parade in a decorated float, as a unit in what is considered the largest parade ever attempted in Los Angeles.

Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Kirksey, 210 East Hill avenue, was the occasion of a delightful meeting of the members of the Eagle Rock branch of the American College club.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. A. C. Fisk, the members of this club have just completed a three months' study of music, taking the various composers in alphabetical order.

Tribute to Mrs. Fisk

In a late issue of the American College Society magazine, appears the following tribute to Mrs. A. C. Fisk, organizer of the American College club of Eagle Rock:

"The American College club at Eagle Rock was organized under the solicitation of Mrs. Edwin Thompson. It has met regularly at the home of its leader, Mrs. A. C. Fisk.

"From the first, it has been a success—and that success has been due largely to the ability of its leader. Mrs. Fisk is a woman of much ability and many attainments, a woman of large mind and of larger heart. She is truly an educated woman whose training eminently has shown its growth in the fruit of her beautiful spirit."

The Congregational church is laying plans for a "Daily Vacation Bible School" during the month of July, announces Rev. E. Morgan Isaac, pastor of the church. Further announcement will be made at a later date. The school will be open to all who care to attend.

SENIOR PLAY IS TO BE REPEATED

Success of First Offering Proves Ability of Student Cast

"A Pair of Sixes," the senior play, proved its worth once more last night in the high school auditorium and will be presented to-night before a packed house.

The first scene is laid in the office of two partners interested in a patent medicine. One of them has compounded the mixture while the other has perfected the color. Each considers his contribution of paramount importance. This attitude occasions many petty arguments which inject additional humor.

Through an agreement made by the partners one of them finds himself in an unusual predicament. The resulting situation is regarded as one of the funniest in the entire plot.

A romantic side is introduced by the younger partner's fiancée. The play ends in a pleasing manner.

The acting of those in the cast is regarded as exceptionally good. They sustained interest throughout the entire performance.

Credit for the success of the play is being given to Harold Brewster, head of the dramatic department. Those taking part in it are: Allen Pollock, George Jansen, Miss Charlotte Winsel, Miss Elaine Buttrud, Harry Bennett, Miss Helen Sherwood, Miss Alice Farrow, Evert Smits, Ralph Van Hoorebeke, John Judd and George Juett.

Ghost City

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

It has ever been a woman's role to stir a man's ambitions. Lola Larson looked into the future and advised Tom Greer to leave Bad Mountain.

"There were 15,000 people here," she said, "when the diggings were paying high. Now there are not more than 12,000. The place is going back, and you know what that means in a mining camp. Move while the moving is good. I'm going."

Tom looked up the slope, scarred and scratched by the miners, then down the main business street filled with booted men, children and dogs.

"I have my plans," he said, "and I'll stay."

"I'm going," Lola repeated, and Tom nodded.

"You'll be coming back," he said, "when the town gets to going good again."

Lola went. The town grew smaller with each month. Less than 1000, then no more than 500. The brave ones, the stickers, and the dogged were left. Tom was elected mayor.

"I'm mayor now," he wrote to Lola. "I knew it would come in time. You see, I was right to wait. Think of it, I have been elected mayor!"

No one in the town guessed how proud he was of the position, how since he had been a boy he had dreamed of being a mayor some day. Tom felt his office every minute of the day. He was mayor Greer in every action, happy for once.

Still the town dwindled. Tom became mayor and clerk, head of the fire department and postoffice. What few men who were left stuck to the job of picking at the hills. Boards were nailed over store doors and windows. There were lots of dogs now and few children or men.

"It's all right," said Tom, as he leaned back in his chair in front of the hotel he had taken over for a home. "It's all right. One of these days there'll be a strike and the whole bunch will come back, Lola and everybody, and I will own the place, all the stores and everything. Mayor Greer, the man who stuck, will welcome them back."

Salaries for certain state, county and federal offices hung on after the duties ceased. Tom became custodian of all titles and was supplied with enough money for his needs. At any time he could go into the stores and help himself of what was there. There were clothes and shoes enough to last him a thousand years, and lots of tobacco.

One day the last family left, and Tom had the city all to himself. Every evening he walked the length of the street of boarded doors and windows, then sat on the hotel porch, his feet on the rail. The dogs came to him for food and he gave them the names of the men and women who had been there. In time he conversed with them at length on matters of public policy, sought their opinions and told them jokes. He nodded as he passed store fronts and called out greetings to the proprietors who had gone.

"This is all very foolish," he told himself, "but it makes things more interesting."

One day the mail brought a letter from Lola. "Surely," she wrote, "you'll quit the place now. I will not write you again."

Then it was Tom packed the grip he had brought to Bad Mountain twenty years before. He carried it to the hotel porch, as they used to in the days of the stage, then started once more on his walk through the streets.

Here were abandoned houses built on the sides and over the creek. Some of the roofs had caved in, weeds were growing everywhere. Up on the hills, cabins open to the winds and desolate. Tom turned into the business street.

"It's a sad thing," Tom wrote to Lola, "when a city dies. If I leave there won't be anything left but the ghost of Bad Mountain. You won't understand, most like, but it seems to me I'm needed here. He signed it with a flourish, 'Thomas Greer, Mayor.'"

Bad Mountain lived in Tom's mind until he died. Each evening he walked past the store fronts calling his greetings. To him the streets were peopled.

"Oh, yes," he would say to the dogs who cocked their heads in understanding, "I'm needed here to look after things."

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

WE read so much about ways of clearing the complexion. Diet, exercise, special foods, special creams—they are all very good, anyone with a bad skin had best use all these methods, as all are beneficial.

But one simple way is little talked about. A daily hot bath will do wonders in clearing a muddy skin, a blotchy skin, or one full of ugly large pores and blackheads.

The body, as we all know, is continually throwing off waste matter in one form or another. I forget how much goes off daily through the pores—a surprising amount anyway. One can perspire off pounds in a few hours, as any fat lady in a Turkish bath, or overweight horse jockey can tell you.

This waste, then, dries on the skin, some of it evaporates, much is absorbed by the clothing. Naturally, if there is too much, it will clog up the minute pores and prevent them from throwing off more. Millions of stopped-up, or partially stopped-up, pipes in the body mean that this waste must find its way out some other way. Usually it goes out certain facial pores which enlarge under the pressure and which turn black at the exposed end.

A hot bath, with soap and a fairly stiff scrubbing brush, means that all this matter is cleared off in the normal way, because all the pores will be open and unusually active, owing to the stimulation of the stiff brush. They will drain off, to use an untechnical term, the matter clogging the facial pores and so make the skin fine and clear here as well as all over the body.

K-L Pills

For Kidney and Liver Troubles, Constipation, Intestinal Indigestion and Kindred Ailments

Liver trouble leads to serious ills. And a sure sign of liver trouble is biliousness. If you have attacks of headache, if you have a coated tongue, if you have a flicking appetite, you probably are bilious—which may lead to derangement of the liver and to serious and often fatal results. Read this strong endorsement of Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills. Mrs. J. H. Stone, Route No. 3, Baxley, Ga., writes:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with my kidneys, liver and also my heart. I did not get the relief I needed until I found Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills. They are a wonderful remedy. They certainly are the finest I ever used. I would not be without them in my home and take great pleasure in recommending them to my friends."

You can buy Dr. Chase's K-L Pills at all drug stores. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, M.D., are on each box—your protection against imitation.

MRS. OCKER TELLS ABOUT
ALEXANDRIA, MT. VERNONGlendale Club Woman, Now In East, Writes to
The Evening News Concerning Numerous Points of Historic Interest

ANOTHER interesting travelogue, written by Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, prominent Glendalian and Tuesday Afternoon club member, has been received at the Glendale Evening News office, and will be heartily received by her many friends. Mrs. Ocker tells of her visit to Alexandria and Mount Vernon.

"The day selected for our pilgrimage to historic Alexandria and Mount Vernon was quite ideal. The sun was shining brightly and warm breezes made the atmosphere most delightful, and so, with a keen sense of interested expectancy, we were soon on our journey."

"Leaving Washington by electric train, our route took us past a number of public buildings, the bureau of printing and engraving and the department of agriculture, across the highway bridge into Virginia, following for a time the shores of the Potomac. In the distance on the right we could see the old home of Robert E. Lee at Arlington, a silent sentinel, as it were, guarding the graves of the heroes in the National cemetery. In a short time, we reached Alexandria, where a guide boarded the car and proceeded to give an interesting account of scenes which we passed from time to time on the way to Mount Vernon. We did not linger in Alexandria at this time, but decided to do so on the return trip."

Old Kings' Highway

"The guide pointed out old King's Highway, which Washington used to travel to and from Alexandria, and where Sherman marched his army from the sea. Later, he pointed out a fine old estate which he said was Wellington, the home of Colonel Tobias Lear, who was Washington's secretary. Speeding over this old historic road, it was not long before we had arrived at Mount Vernon."

"We entered the grounds through the old garden and marvelled at the exquisiteness of the boxwood hedges and the quaintly arranged flower beds. The greenhouse which stands in the garden at present, is not the original, it having been destroyed by fire in 1833 and replaced by the present building. The effect has not been marred, however, since the architecture of the new building conforms to that of the surrounding buildings on the estate. One could almost visualize Mrs. Washington in a rustling silk colonial gown hastening down the narrow pathway to greet her guests."

"Leaving the garden we arrived at the main hall, just at the rear of the mansion. A beautiful view of green lawns and in the distance the woods made one feel tempted to sit and dream."

"The arrangement of Washington's home was indeed most carefully planned; a separate building for the butler, a smoke-house, a home for the gardener, and the family kitchen, as well as a building in which the family laundry was done. Evidently no food was prepared in the house proper."

"Entering the main hall from the rear, several interesting objects were to be seen including some old swords belonging to Washington and a key to the bastille, the old French prison."

In Music Room

"Just off this hall lies the music room, with its furniture, now quite antique, many pieces marked 'original,' indicating that it had actually been in use while the Washingtons occupied the mansion. A harpsichord, which it is said was presented by Washington to Nellie Custis as a bridal gift is one of the outstanding features, while an old card table on which Washington and Lafayette played whist attracts a great deal of attention."

"The west parlor, too, is a quaint old room with its furniture of the period, most of which is the original. In this room are the family arms."

"The library is most interesting, but, the books, however, are but duplicates of Washington's wonderful collection. A number of original pieces of furniture are to be seen in this room, as well as Washington's silver inkstand, silver snufflers and a tray."

"The article of prominence in the family dining room is a wonderful old Chippendale dining table used by the Washington family. It is still remarkably well preserved. In this room one sees an artistic stucco ceiling, which, though being original, has been repaired and painted."

"In Mrs. Washington's sitting room are some beautiful candelabra and a silver candlestick owned by the Washington family. A number of interesting old prints hung on the walls give the room a most inviting atmosphere."

"A model of the Bastille is the center of attraction in the banquet hall, where a pair of beautiful porcelain vases and a number of articles including a French clock, a mirror with coat-of-arms, and a magnificent plate of mirrored glass and silver used by Washington on state occasions, come for a share of admiration."

Washington Family

"On the second floor, the bedrooms contain many articles of furniture which the Washington family used. The view from the room where Washington died is very beautiful, overlooking the spot which is now his tomb. After his death, according to the custom of the times, Mrs. Washington closed the room, and occupied the one directly above on the third floor in order that she might be able to have a view of his grave."

"Descending the stairway, we left the main part of the house to visit the old kitchen. Here the brick oven and great fireplace are

Hospital Benefit

Children over at the Orthopedic hospital in Los Angeles are very much impressed with the fact that the big feature of tomorrow for them will be their visit to the society circus given in Praeger park as a benefit for the hospital.

Due to the generosity of Mrs. Belle Willis and other Glendadians the children are to be taken to and from the hospital in automobiles. The plea for automobiles appearing in recent issues of The Glendale Evening News brought hearty responses.

Glendadians furnishing automobiles to leave Mrs. Willis' home at 908 South Central avenue at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, in time to reach the hospital and pick up their passengers at 1:30 o'clock. The hospital is at 2417 South Hope street.

ridor which led to the senate chamber. The president's desk is on the north side of the room, and the desks of the senators arranged in uniform rows, separated by an aisle in the center. The Democratic party occupies one section and the Republican party the other section. Galleries surround the great room where spectators may take seats during the session. The walls are delicately tinted in gold and buff, while marble busts of the vice-presidents are placed at intervals around the hall.

"Then our guide directed us to the president's room, where at the close of a session, the chief executive retires to sign bills. The decorations done by Brumidi are indeed marvelous. Huge mirrors at either end of the room give it an appearance of great depth, and a magnificent chandelier of gold and crystal hanging in the center lends an air of costliness to the wonderful scene. As time was limited, our worthy guide persuaded us to go on, and, as we passed from the room, I noted that he carefully locked the door. He informed me that the room is never left open to visitors inasmuch as the public seems to have an uncontrollable desire to chip off bits of marble or nick the furniture for souvenirs; hence the drastic measures to eliminate such desecration."

House of Representatives

"Upstairs and downstairs, past paintings and mural decorations of priceless value, and along floors of unreplaceable marble, we passed into the house of representatives. The speaker's desk occupies the position of prominence on an elevation in the center of the south side of the chamber. Directly in front of the desks of clerks and reporters while on the right is the chair of the sergeant-at-arms and on the left that of the assistant doorkeeper. The chairs of the congressmen are as in the senate chamber, arranged in uniform order, with a section for the Democratic party and a section for the Republican party. For spectators surround the chamber, as in the senate, with sections reserved for diplomats, the press, the public, and constituents who obtain cards from their respective congressmen."

"Reluctantly leaving this scene of beauty, we are conducted to statutory hall. This room, we were reminded, was in the old days used as the house of representatives. A plate set in the floor marks the spot where John Quincy Adams fell, stricken with paralysis during a session. Marble and bronze statues of great men are placed in the hall; each state being allowed to send two of her distinguished citizens. It was with regret that I noted California is not represented here. Upon obtaining the information that I hailed from California, our guide attempted to impress upon me the fact that California should be represented. I hope that this matter may be properly attended to in the near future."

"In the crypt below the rotunda, a star in the floor designates the center of the capitol. Our guide stated that this chamber was intended to be used as a tomb for Washington, but of course, this plan was never carried out."

Library of Congress

"Directly across from the capitol is the magnificent library of congress, which faces west and has a frontage on four streets. The interior of this wonderful building is replete with marvelous architecture and beautifully adorned walls and ceilings. In the center of the building is the great dome; and the spacious marble stairways running right and left lead to the second and third floors. The ground floor is given over to the copyright office, superintendent's suite and a reading room for the blind. The first floor has a number of exquisitely decorated reading rooms and consultation suites set apart for senators and representatives. Rare exhibits of engravings, old books and portraits of distinguished statesmen occupy the galleries and pavilions on the second floor. The library is most brilliant at night, when the gold and vari-colored tints of the walls and ceilings, together with the glistening white marble of the numerous columns and floors present a great spectacle."

While in Washington Mrs. Ocker visited with particular pleasure, Memorial Continental hall, erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution; the Pan-American building; the Corcoran Art Gallery; and the Rod Cross building.

She has now gone to New York for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Robbins at Ithaca.

If his hands and feet annoy and dismay him in society, he finds comfort in the thought that he is a red-blooded he-man."

TODAY—Labor shortage in the north could be alleviated by excess help in the south, Chicago Labor Bureau tells Kenneth Harris, correspondent in that city.

TOMORROW—Interest in the "Tomb" of ancient Nevada Indian chief vies with that of "King Tut," writes E. J. Greenwalt, Reno, Nevada, special correspondent.

By KENNETH HARRIS
For International News Service

CHICAGO, May 11.—The shortage of laborers—both skilled and unskilled—which is reported to be acute in all trades and industries throughout the nation this Spring has been flatly denied by a local labor service agency. All that is necessary to remedy the reported shortage, this agency asserts, is to put the thousands of able-bodied idlers of the Southern section of the United States to work in the mills and factories, most of which are said to be in dire straits as a result of having to operate short-handed.

In a letter received by International News Service from this employment agency, they explain their views about the topic in the following manner:

"Gentlemen: The Chicago American report published relative to labor shortage advanced by your service carefully read.

"We can supply anywhere from ten to 10,000 first-class negro laborers from the south. There are thousands of able-bodied men down there who want to work and cannot find it down there.

"We can deliver men in from ten to fifteen days direct to plant. So please acquaint us with firms that want negro labor. We can handle any order and for any number. Yours,

(Signed) "GEORGE W. PARKER."

Inasmuch as several states in the south, specifically Louisiana, Florida and Georgia, classify interstate traffic in labor as a violation of state laws, it is freely predicted by Illinois employers that this agency's officials would find themselves in the toils of the Best Known and Best Loved Woman Physician in America Writes for The Evening News

By KATHERINE RAY

"FATE knew what she was doing when she picked on a little New England girl about thirty years ago and said: 'You shall be fat. You shall suffer the slings and arrows of that outrageous fortune, for it is only by having you suffer that I can prepare you for your life work.'"

This is the answer that Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters—undoubtedly the best known and best loved woman physician in America, and one of the most popular writers in The Glendale Evening News gave when asked how she happened to have the uncanny knowledge of the cause and remedy of fat and the psychology of fat persons which has placed her in the foremost ranks as an authority on the subject today.

Because she is giving this knowledge to the world in her very popular writings and has freed many thousands of overburdened persons from their excess weight and the many disorders accompanying it, the world is metaphorically at her feet and loves her perhaps as no woman physician has been loved before.

I was privileged to see parts of some of the thousands of letters Dr. Peters receives every day from the followers of her books, magazine articles and newspaper work—for Dr. Peters has given up her private practice to devote her time to the wider work of writing on health subjects. All of the writers tell of their gratefulness and devotion to her. Peters for what her teachings have meant in their lives.

Radiates Health

Dr. Peters herself radiates health, happiness and youth. Although she is chronologically in the middle age of life, she is young mentally and physically and has the force and vitality of youth.

Dr. Peters' training and experiences have been varied. She was graduated from the Eastern Maine State Normal school as a teacher, from the University of Southern California as Bachelor of Arts, from the University of California as Doctor of Medicine, and she has also taken graduate work in the New York and Chicago Post-Graduate colleges and Harvard.

She was instructor in her medical college in pathology, and instructor on infant feeding in several hospitals in Los Angeles—including the large county hospital; superintendent of a hospital, head of child clinics and reconstruction worker in the Balkans with the Red Cross. She won the much-coveted decoration of St. Sava from the Serbian government and the Skanderbeg decoration of Albania for her public health work while in the Balkans.

"Tell me, Doctor, how did you come to leave your private practice and take up writing? And did you have the usual hard fortune of most writers before you arrived?"

"I shall answer your second question first," responded the doctor. "No, the first thing I ever wrote, aside from medical papers, was my book, 'Diet and Health, With Key to the Calories,' and that was an immediate success. The little book was written as a contribution to the food conservation movement during the war. At that time, when it was so necessary to save food that 'Food Will Win the War' became an accepted slogan, I was chairman of public health of the Federation of Women's clubs, Los Angeles district.

How It Happened

"I realized that many adults and many children in their desire to serve, would undermine their health by under-eating. I knew there were literally many thousands of overweight persons who could cut their rations still further than they were doing without harm to their health."

from the north, and for many centuries it served this purpose admirably. Now and then a marauding force might come across, but it was impossible for an army of invasion to climb over the mountains without adequate supplies; and on this account a large military expedition must necessarily travel through one or another of the passes, all of which, where the wall crossed them, were formidably fortified.

The Tartars did eventually get through, but it was not by fighting. In the thirteenth century the Chinese were at desperate war with the Mongols, and were so pressed that they invited the Tartars to come and help them. The Tartars came, stayed there, seized the reins of government, established a dynasty of their own (which was only recently upset), and obliged all the Chinese to wear pig tails in token of a quasi-servitude.

The object of building the wall was to keep out invading Tartars

forced to put it then in the book stores. There one was seen by the vice-president of the Reilly and Lee Company, publishers, and I was asked to enlarge it for general publication.

"Shortly after I returned from overseas Mr. Adams of the George Matthews Adams Service decided that if I could write scientifically on diet and how to reduce in terms the layman could understand and would read, I could write general health articles as well, and he asked me to become their health feature writer. Realizing the very great influence of such a service—that I would be able to give constructive health ideas to millions as compared to hundreds in private practice—I accepted, and have been devoting my time to this and other writings since.

Letters Inspiration

"While I have a special feature for babies and children which is very successful, a large part of the work is teaching how to reduce and how to gain, and how to do it scientifically, so that the health is regained."

"The letters I receive from my followers are a great inspiration. I love them. I can see now, as I told you in the first place, that fate was wise in handing me my affliction of fat so that I could prevent others from a like suffering. The plaint, 'Oh, that I too, too solid flesh would melt' is changed to 'This too, too solid flesh is melting, glory be!'"

"I have demonstrated that the laymen really do enjoy scientific facts if they are given in understandable terms. Dr. Peters might have added that not only do the laymen enjoy her writings because they are written in non-technical language, but they enjoy them because she has a remarkable vein of humor. As one reviewer of her works expressed it, 'There is a scientific sea of text with whitecaps of wit

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

—BY HOWARD R. GARIS—

UNCLE WIGGILY IN A HOLE

The hungry Fox and the hungry Wolf roamed through the woods, growling angrily.

"It's all your fault," howled the Wolf.

"It isn't at all," barked the Fox, who was something like a dog. "It's the fault of any one it is yours."

Then they growled at each other again.

"What's the matter with you two growling the Skillery Scaltery Alligator?"

"They are angry because neither of them can catch Uncle Wiggily," laughed the Bob Cat.

"Well, I've missed him myself more than once, but there is no use in getting angry. Some day I may catch him."

Noticing that their friends were laughing at them, the Fox and Wolf stopped quarreling, and the Fox, winking one eye, whispered to the Wolf:

"Come deeper into the woods where these two won't hear us. I think I know a way to catch that rabbit uncle."

Together the Fox and Wolf slunk deeper into the dark woods.

"Well, how are you going to do it?" the Wolf asked.

"We'll dig a deep hole and cover it lightly only with leaves and sticks. Uncle Wiggily will hop along. He will hop on the covering of the leaves and break through, falling into the hole."

"It may work and it may not," said the Wolf. "However, we'll try it. Come on, let's dig. But how can we be sure to make the hole near where Uncle Wiggily will hop?"

"We'll dig the hole along the path he always takes when he hops to the store for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy," answered the Fox.

"And to make sure he will stop on the leaves, we'll put on top of them a sign, telling him to dig right there. He'll think he can find something. He'll dig and we shall do the rest."

"Very good," whispered the Wolf, though it might be called very bad. I think so. So the two hungry animals dug the deep hole, covering it lightly over with sticks and leaves and on top they laid a white birch bark sign which said: DIG HERE

Then the Fox and Wolf went away for a while to wait for Uncle Wiggily to fall into the hole, or trap.

Surely enough, after about half an hour Uncle Wiggily came through the woods. He was on his way to the store for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. Pretty soon he reached the hole the bad animals had dug and the bunny gentleman read the sign on the leaves.

"Ha! Dig here!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Maybe a good fairy has hidden a fortune there for me to dig up. I'll try it." Thinking nothing wrong, he began to dig. But no sooner had he put his paws on the leaves than down through them and the little sticks he fell, into the hole! Down! Down!

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he hopped away, leaving the bad animals howling in their own trap. "Ha! Ha! You forgot that a rabbit is one of the best diggers in the world! Ho! Ho!" And his ears weren't nibbled that day.

And if the goldfish doesn't try to go swimming in the lady's tub, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily helping Jackie Bow Wow.

Ha! said Uncle Wiggily.

"And now it is my turn to play a trick on the Fox and Wolf." So Uncle Wiggily carefully put back over the hole which the Fox and Wolf had dug the same covering of leaves and sticks. But he hid the birch bark sign. Then Uncle Wiggily hid in the bushes and waited.

Soon the Fox and Wolf came sneaking back.

"The sign is gone! He must be in the hole!" cried the Fox. "I'll get him first!"

"No, I'll get him first!" howled the Wolf. They both rushed for the covered hole at the same time. Through the leaves and sticks they crashed, falling themselves into the hole they had made for the bunny.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he hopped away, leaving the bad animals howling in their own trap. "Ha! Ha! You forgot that a rabbit is one of the best diggers in the world! Ho! Ho!" And his ears weren't nibbled that day.

And if the goldfish doesn't try to go swimming in the lady's tub, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily helping Jackie Bow Wow.

"Ha! Dig here!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Maybe a good fairy has hidden a fortune there for me to dig up. I'll try it." Thinking nothing wrong, he began to dig. But no sooner had he put his paws on the leaves than down through them and the little sticks he fell, into the hole! Down! Down!

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he hopped away, leaving the bad animals howling in their own trap. "Ha! Ha! You forgot that a rabbit is one of the best diggers in the world! Ho! Ho!" And his ears weren't nibbled that day.

THE GLENDALE

In "Romance Land," the Tom Mix film now showing at the Glendale Theatre, a Fox offering directed by Edward Sedgwick, Tom is portrayed as a romantic cowboy who reads "Ivanhoe" and fancies himself a modern knight who has set forth to rescue his lady-fair.

There are armors and amours and broadswords and many brave breaking where you least expect them."

It is easily seen that Dr. Peters loves her work, and there is no doubt that her teachings will sooner or later rid our country of the stigma of being a nation of over-eaters because so large a proportion of our population is overweight. And it is certain that Glendale readers will be better parents as well as healthier husbands because they read the baby socks' History and "Diet and Health" every day in The Glendale Evening News.

ATE MEET WILL RING OUT STARS

School Athletes Clash
in Occidental Field,
Saturday, May 12

Performances made by Southern California High school athletes at the national interscholastic track and field championships meet held here in Chicago were so remarkable that it is the intention of the principals and coaches to send a representative team from California to the Stagg Field championships next year. With this end in view, officials in charge of the meet, which comes to Patterfield, Occidental college, on Saturday, are looking forward to a sufficiently large to enable them to send ten or twelve men.

Chicago meet this year will be held on May 26, and if the $3000 is raised California will be represented by an all-star team which, from all indications, promises to be the strongest any state in the union. These men will total points for their own schools and not for California as they are doing at home, they will make the up and note that California high school athletes represent the state of the country.

Fame Broadcasted
years ago Elmer Boyden of the High school, California, who Chicago on money submitted by his own school mates, and unheralded he arrived when the meet was over his was broadcasted throughout the world. He had won the 440 in 10 record time, captured the mile under two minutes and a broad jump with a leap of twenty-two feet. These points had given him second place in the meet, three points behind the winner.

Excellent Chance
The Chicago meet five places with points 5, 3, 2 and 1. It is very probable that one school piles up three points. While virtually all California athletes east this year should be more significant still in Hollywood and Huntington Beach would stand an excellent chance of winning the meet. The right kind of breaks, Huntington Beach could score points, which ought to win of this kind. Milton Nash rate favorite to win the shot put, the team with the high hurdles, should place at least third in the four hundred. Nichols' high in fifteen and one-hundred, and Bickmore has been in fifteen and seven-hundred. Kaer of Red Bluff, could probably beat them in one dash horse must be for. Ten points.

Runs the low hurdles in live flat, and ought to win, leaving Nichols out of the race. Beach about two fourth place. Bickmore place second to Smith of the U. S. and Nichols, who clears ought to count on at least ten. Seventeen points, has a chance for two in the up, and Elliott may grab a broad jump. That totals points and a probable victory.

wood could count on about points in the Chicago Coyne's forty-eight feet in the shot put, and as jump was won at five last year, Turner's six inch ought to assure him points. Meeks leaps twenty and should place second in the pole vault. Barnes won in the pole vault and is the same number in the mile. Eighteen points won in 1921, so Coach Bill could stand a very good chance of putting across a victory.

Captain's Himself Again

Billy Southworth, Snapped In the Opening Series of the Year With the Giants

The return of Billy Southworth, dapper right fielder and capting of the Boston Braves, may not be enough to lift that team far from the cellar, but it has caused great joy in Boston. In the first game, Southworth was forced from the game for the rest of the season last year after breaking into forty-three games. Injuries and sickness were the cause.

His absence made the fans realize what a sparkling he was in the Hub machine. Billy's return recalls his spectacular entrance into the big show. The gent with the starched pantaloons and whitewashed face never hopped through a paper hoop with more elation than Billy hopped into the grand melee.

This is what happened and how it came about, as the story books say: Southworth had been tried out by the Cleveland club back in 1915 and shipped to Portland. In 1917 he joined Birmingham.

In midseason 1918 Manager Bezdek of the Pirates figured he needed a star outfielder to put the Pirates in the running. The 33-year-old Southworth, who had been in the majors for three years, was brought to Pittsburgh. He was a natural hitter and a fast runner. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star.

Southworth was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star.

Southworth was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star.

Southworth was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star. He was a natural leader. He was a natural winner. He was a natural star.

other big league clubs must have figured he had the dope right, for no one offered him anything in the way of a gardener. So the Pirates bosses went into the tall and uncut—no offense to Birmingham.

Southworth was recommended and Bezdek took him. The Pirates didn't cop the flag that year. But it wasn't Southworth's fault. He was in the fight up to his neck right off the bat. When the smoke cleared away he had hit .341 in sixty-four games. Zack Wheat, crowned king of hitters in the old circuit that season, hit only .335. Zack, however, broke into 195 games, which gave him the edge.

In addition to being a dangerous hitter, Southworth is a versatile man at the plate and a fleet runner on the bases. He has the dash and pep necessary in a team leader.

Bill allows as how he's set for a big year. Go to it, Mr. Southworth.

MILK FUND CARD DRAWS BIG GATE

Advance Sales of Tickets
Reach $300,000 Day
Before Fights

NEW YORK, May 11.—Twenty-four hours away from what is undoubtedly the most attractive boxing card ever arranged here or elsewhere, New York has risen to the Milk Fund show to the extent of $300,000 worth of tickets sold, with many more to come. A sell-out will mean a crowd of nearly 70,000 and gross receipts totaling $450,000, and if the weather remains favorable, these figures will be reached long before the first bout goes on at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

As a result many milk bottles will stand on deserving doorsteps, and the status of the principal heavy-weight contenders will be determined beyond all argument. It is a worthy charity and a worthy show.

The customers, for example, paid $1,500,000 to see Dempsey give Carpenter a nasty punch on the chest at Jersey City. They will see fifty rounds of boxing tomorrow between all of the championship contenders, with the exception of Tom Gibbons, and the most they can pay is $450,000, at prices ranging from $1 to $20, an extremely moderate charge, considering undernourished children are the beneficiaries, and Jess Willard, Floyd Johnson, Luis Firpo, Jack McAuliffe II, Fred Fulton, Jack Repault, and other fistic healers the attractions.

The return of Willard to the ways of the fist should be sufficient unto itself to insure a capacity house, regardless of Johnson's recent improvement and the fact that McAuliffe has suddenly begun to make gestures that indicate an uncomfortable afternoon for the noble Firpo. But the promoters have gone beyond the point of giving the customers a meal and are promising a feast.

Long before the finalists have entered the ring, Fulton will try his chin against Repault's punch with the issue in grave doubt. "Tiny" Jim Herman, the Omaha giant, will sock Al Reich or vice versa, and Harry Drake and Joe McCann will pedal four rounds. That means fifty rounds of action, provided one or two of the contestants do not become uncouth which is altogether likely.

Odds on the principals of the feature bouts have held firm, in spite of the improved chances of Johnson and McAuliffe, the short-ends. Doyle, Broadway's most testing commissioner, is holding $1390 of Willard money against $1,000 on Johnson, and holds several sizable wagers that say Firpo will beat McAuliffe at odds of 2 1/2 to 1. He also holds a freak bet of $300 to $100 against Willard, Firpo and McCann winning their bouts.

Betting activity and ticket sales determine public interest in all sporting events and in these essential particulars the Milk fund show is scoring more heavily than any local feature since the Dempsey-Carpenter affair.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR NEW HOTEL

Bids From Contractors Are Already Coming in to Architect Priest

The Glendale Advancement association met yesterday noon for luncheon at 201 East Harvard street and discussed several matters of interest to Glendale.

Preliminary plans for the hotel to be erected on the northeast corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway have been completed, according to the report of H. L. Finlay, of 131 South Brand boulevard. He stated that Architect Arthur G. Lindley of 123 South Belmont street was receiving bids from contractors already.

The extension of ornamental lights east on Broadway was the principal topic of discussion. S. C. Kinch of 228 North Brand boulevard stated that the lighting committee was in favor of uniform standards the entire length of East Broadway, but that it was undecided as to whether to recommend the installation of additional ornamental iron posts with five lights or the installation of a new type.

"There are two things that we want," he remarked. "We want something that will be efficient and that will be ornamental. We know that the present five-light standard is not efficient."

Will Establish Grade The establishing of the grade on Glendale avenue depends upon the establishment of a grade upon Colorado street, in the opinion of C. W. Ingledue of 632½ East Broadway. He said that he had been given to understand that the earliest time that the grade on Glendale avenue can be established is May 21.

John F. McElish of 410 East Maple street expressed his opinion that this grade would not be established for two weeks. "I am quite sure that everything is going along favorably," reported Mr. Ingledue, in regard to the electrification of the Union Pacific line on Glendale avenue. "I trust that this matter will be threshed out in a very few days."

Others present at the luncheon were: Herman Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mercer, Mrs. J. A. McGowan, Mrs. Mary Jane Brewer, Mrs. I. J. Jordan, Dr. Lolita Flewelling, Maurice Hartmann, Francis Gordon, Frank L. Fox, Richard M. Brown, F. W. McIntyre, John F. Chandler, A. Sapir, Mrs. Mabel L. Ticht, George E. Caldwell, K. C. Sipple and S. A. Davis.

Optometrists to Hold Meeting at Yosemite

The state convention of the California Association of Optometrists will be held May 28, 29 and 30 at Camp Curry, Yosemite National Park. Reservations indicate that it will be the largest meeting of the organization ever held, more than 500 optometrists are planning to make the trip into the valley.

A special train over the Southern Pacific will convey the Southern California optometrists, 300 strong. This train will leave Los Angeles Saturday, May 26, and will proceed direct to El Portal in the valley.

One of the principal speakers will be Dr. F. A. Wolf of Columbia University, New York City. Dr. Wolf will speak on matters of interest to the optometrists and the public as well. Others on the program include some of the best known optometrists in the state. Dr. Wolf will visit Southern California after the convention, remaining here the greater part of next month. He will give addresses in Pasadena, Hollywood, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Glendale and other southern cities.

The Los Angeles unit of the League for the Conservation of Vision, which recently announced a campaign of eyesight education, will have a prominent part in the program of the state convention. The Los Angeles unit has members in every city and town in the county.

Bill for Mine Rescue Work Is Approved

SACRAMENTO, May 11.—Among last minute appropriation bills passed on by the assembly ways and means committee, following its final meeting of the present legislative session, is one calling for $15,000 to construct two mine rescue stations. F. G. Stevenot, of Jackson, brought to the attention of the committee the fact that the Argonaut disaster might have been averted had mine rescue facilities been at hand.

Assistance for the Pasadena G. A. R. in holding perhaps the last national encampment of its organization in the west next year was granted in the sum of $25,000.

Another house burned down by an exploding still. Who'll be the first slicker to offer still insurance?

A sense of humor is what would keep men from making such haste on such insignificant errands.

COMMENT That's All

Speaking About Climate Paint To Save Surface? Can You Spell It? What! National Income Tax

By Gil A. Cowan

Y E wonders of the ages! Southern California climate changed by an ocean current. Bathing more beautiful than ever at our beaches these days with the prospects of sharks, etc.

Indeed, it may be necessary for Santa Monica, Long Beach and other watering "troughs," as Scott Fitzgerald might say, to put a fence around their beach line to keep out the man-eating fishes.

And to think that California has a crop of currents that is attracting the attention of the continent. And to believe that the southland a much more desirable place in summer, as well as a protective blanket in winter.

London, greatest city in the world, has its fog which washes the air of the metropolis daily. Perhaps it is the Creator's way of keeping things clean. Man only patterns after the fog in washing windows, rinsing the streets, etc.

Girls of Oakdale high school in the northern part of the state have forewarned the use of cosmetics in their make-ups. That is all right if they stay in Oakdale, but let them come to Los Angeles vicinity and they will be arrested for spoofs.

Who is the girl of today without rouge, lipstick and arched eyebrows? Again, we ask, what is she? We will let someone else answer. One little sixteen-year-old sister we know, who doesn't use cosmetics, passes very nicely for a married lady of twenty some odd years.

And a 69-year-old flapper, bedecked in the war paint of the female of the species, passes for a Jane of seventeen. Yes, make-up is as necessary nowadays as clothes, according to the partumers' ads.

We always read the advertisements with a great deal of belief. So we believe the Oakdale girls are all wrong in trying to make themselves unlikely. It can't be done, either.

How well can you spell? Here is a list of words which stumped the faculty and students of one high school in the state:

Verily, rarely, embarrass, harass, inoculate, innuendo, picknick, repellent, supersede and plagu.

And when you have finished misspelling them, go to the dictionary and find out how to pronounce the following words:

How would you construe the status and resources of a contractor afflicted with the eczema or ptomaine.

Briefly, the words sound like this: construe stay-us, re-sources, contractor, afflicted, eczema and toe-may-in.

Outside of the few mistakes you have made, you are alright.

Now we will proceed with a dissertation on the National Income Tax, copied from the San Francisco Chronicle:

"In our previous wars we have had high taxation while the war lasted, with material reductions within a year following its end. And normal taxation for national purposes was almost negligible. The World war, however, left us with such a tremendous debt, coupled with an intensified demand for new national expenditures in every conceivable direction, that our people had settled down to the conviction that hereafter most of our earnings would go to our many classes of tax gatherers—national, state and local.

"It is gratifying to hear that General H. M. Lord, director of the national budget, who had expected a deficit of some hundred millions at the end of this fiscal year, now expects an actual surplus of some $60,000,000 and looks forward to a material reduction of income taxes for the next year. This does not mean merely reduction of surtaxes, for that is expected to result in increased revenues from the larger income taxpayers, because it will be more profitable to pay the taxes than to buy tax-free bonds with their surplus incomes. It means an actual reduction of rates. And throughout the country there is insistent demand for reduction of state and local taxation."

The more favorable outlook for the National Treasury is due to various causes. There is an increase of revenue from customs duties and the British government has begun payment of its debt. But probably the most important feature is that while during the present fiscal year we have been taxing the reduced incomes of 1921 we have already begun to get receipts from the much larger incomes of 1922 and have reason to expect still larger receipts next year from the still greater prosperity of 1923. The larger the volume of business the smaller the necessary rate of taxation for our present limit of expenditure."

Another good intelligence test is an advertisement of something that will make you beautiful in six weeks.

RAISE MONEY TO BUY SCOUT CAMP

Rotary Club Accepts Report Of Finance Committee At Luncheon

The Glendale Rotary club, at its luncheon meeting yesterday noon in the auditorium of the Citizens' building, voted unanimous indorsement of the committee report on financial arrangements for the purchase of the Haynes Canyon Boy Scout camp site.

This is the biggest, the best, the most worthwhile work before us," said President George B. Karr of the club, in commenting on the successful culmination of this project.

The committee report disclosed the fact that $6,100 has already been pledged by members toward the $8,000 required to purchase this seventy-acre site, and that arrangements had been made to have the Title Guarantee & Trust Company of Los Angeles act as trustee, title vesting in the individual members as purchasers, in the amount of their subscriptions.

Auction Cabin Sites The report further disclosed that it is planned to auction off twenty-five year leases on cabin sites in the canyon, the cash derived from the purchase of such leases to amount to $4,000, over, which will largely reimburse the members for the amounts of their pledges.

J. G. Huntley, chairman of the Boys' Camp committee, made the report. The other members of the Glendale Rotary club on this committee are C. C. Cooper, A. R. Eastman, W. E. Hewitt, Roy L. Kent and H. S. Webb.

Commenting on the Haynes Canyon camp site, Mr. Huntley described it as a canyon beautifully lined with trees and ideal as a Boy Scout camp, as well as a splendid location for cabin sites. Abundant water is on the land and the committee feel that the purchase of the property will go down in the history of Glendale as one of the finest things a group of men ever did for the boys of the community.

Certificates of participation will be presented to the other schools.

Karr Is Delegate George B. Karr, as president of the Glendale Rotary club, was unanimously chosen official delegate to the forthcoming convention of International Rotary in St. Louis, and Roy L. Kent, as past president of the club, was unanimously chosen alternate.

Mr. White, as president of the Berkeley club and official delegate to the St. Louis convention, made a short talk welcoming in advance members of the Glendale club he hoped to see in St. Louis.

The National Institute of Social Sciences having awarded J. D. Rockefeller a medal as a giver, we hereby award him two medals as a taker.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.
